WEDNESDAY, JULY 5

Opening: “So I traveled a great deal...” at Matthew Marks Gallery

This group show, organized by Jordan Stein and artist Vincent Fecteau, brings together work by six Northern Californian artists. All the work on view carries what the curators call “ecstatic anxiety,” or the feeling of chaos or indeterminacy. Many of the pieces here have never been on view before. Some of the work will be trippy, if not downright hallucinatory—drawings by Jordan Belson, better known for his abstract experimental films, will offer patterns that resemble space imagery. Pieces by Isabella Kirkland, Joanne Kyger, Jack Mendenhall, Robert Strini, and Tisa Walden are also included.

Matthew Marks Gallery, 522 West 22nd Street, 6–8 p.m.
